

COALEX STATE INQUIRY REPORT – 132
November 29, 1989

Myra Spicker, Esquire
Division of Reclamation
309 W. Washington
Suite 201
Indianapolis, Indiana 46204

TOPIC: INSPECTION OF BLAST RECORDS

INQUIRY: An operator monitored a neighboring mine's blasts on its seismograph. The operator's records could "implicate the neighboring mine." Citizens' suits have arisen over the neighboring mine's blasts. The operator's records of its own blasts are available for inspection; do the Division of Reclamation (and the public) have the right to inspect seismographic records which happened to have been taken of the neighboring mine's blasts? According to SMCRA Sec. 517 (b)(1)(E), 30 U.S.C. Sec. 1267 (b)(1)(E), the permittee is required to "provide such other information relative to surface coal mining and reclamation operations as the regulatory authority deems reasonable and necessary." Locate any case law, opinions, or other state regulations which address this issue.

SEARCH RESULTS: Research was conducted using the COALEX Library and the other state and federal materials available in LEXIS. No relevant opinions were identified among Interior Board of Land Appeals, Administrative Law Judge, state case law or state (Pennsylvania) administrative decisions which address the inspection issue. One federal district court case (Wyoming) with some relevance was identified; a copy is attached. The language of the relevant state regulations is identical to or substantially the same as the language in the federal regulations. A "side-by-side" table of the state and federal regulation identified is attached; samples of some state rule sections are attached.

CASE LAW

V-1 1 OIL CO. v STATE OF WYOMING, 696 F Supp 578 (D Wyo 1988).

A supervisor for the Wyoming Department of Environmental Quality, Water Quality Division, investigated the discharge of pollution, from underground storage tanks of the V-1 Oil Station, into the groundwater. A "designated authorized" representative, presented "appropriate credentials" and "inspected without delay". The court ruled that the "inspection complied with the statute." The Wyoming statute does not require "a warrant or a court order before an inspection may be made."

Upon fulfillment of three criteria, a warrantless search of a pervasively regulated business will be deemed reasonable. NEW YORK v BURGER, 107 S.Ct. at 2643-44...First, there must be "a 'substantial' government interest that informs the regulatory scheme pursuant to which the inspection is made". Id. at 2644...Second, "the warrantless inspections must be 'necessary to further [the] regulatory scheme.'" Id. (quoting DONOVAN v DEWEY, 452 U.S. at 600)...Third, "the regulatory statute must perform the two basic functions of a warrant: it must advise the owner of the commercial premises that the search is being made pursuant to the law and has a properly defined scope, and it must limit the discretion of the inspecting officers." NEW YORK v BURGER, 107 S.Ct. at 2644 (citing Marshall, 436 U.S. at 323. The statute in question does both.

STATE REGULATIONS

The following state regulation contains language which may be of particular interest: Alabama Surface Mining Reclamation Commission, Rules and Regulations (11/78). Regulation No. 4.3. Blasting Standards.

"(D) If valid complaints from a surrounding blast area are received and persist, the Director may require the blaster to decrease the maximum peak particle velocity of ground motion, at the nearest dwelling, public building, school, church, commercial or institutional building to as low as one (1) inch per second. Seismographic monitoring may be required at the site of the complaint nearest the blasts."

A table of state regulations and statutes (identified using COALEX) and the federal regulations and statutes to which they correspond follows. [NOTE: This table is not purported to be a complete list of matching federal/state materials.]
